

Realization

Brown,

Your favorite color and the color of the earth.

Green,

My favorite color and the color in which floods our forests.

Together we mixed but you saw the hazel in my eyes and you realized I wasn't for you,

Now that you are gone my heart is devoid of color.

i can't believe when you said that i'm all that you need

Your words slipped in the deepest parts of my mind as i realized that you're just wasting my time

but oh, how i miss you

Liar, Liar, LIAR,

i miss the version of you,

That you refused to let me see,

the version you gave to everyone but me.

I never believed my mother when she told me that you would never love me.

those words controlled me like a drunk man, whose hopes and dreams are lost in a bud light can.

Lethal thoughts deluge my brain,

my body yells to stop this pain.

I can't keep doing this

I can't, I can't

My body's health is sinking to the abyss.

I can't love myself until you love me,

my thoughts tell that's how it will be,

Anxiety tying me to my bed with chains and pollution,

I layed there limp and ensured that there was no solution.

The mirror in the corner of my room screaming at me,

Unbuilding my body, limb by limb, insecurity by insecurity,

I can't like myself unless you're with me and I pay my mirror a fee.

All of my hopes, dreams, and wishes locked in a box where your cold hands grip the key

My younger self tells me to let go, open my eyes and see.

You laid anxiety in my spine and left emptiness in my cartilage.

Now that you're gone flowers bloom in the empty spaces, happiness brightens up the darkest places.