

EYES FROM THE CROWD

ZACKARY

(he/him)

I created this piece of artwork because it is a very common fear of being scared of public speaking. I had to do this because of art class.

It's just how all of the eyes are on you and it can be nerve-racking and scary. The meaning is how people see the crowd and how their brains will change what they see and make it even scarier than them. I think everyone is a little bit scared of this.
