

INTERPRET IT AS YOU WILL

LINDA

(she/her)

At first, i was just participating in an event to raise awareness for mental health. but the more i worked on it, the more connection i felt to it and wanted to express myself more. i always feel like i have to fit in wherever i go, but in reality, i'm never going to be able to do that. so i might as well embrace the amazing feeling of releasing myself from the rigid corners of life. and this is my expression of it.

The artwork is a use of normal sharpies or pencil, but then one square bursts out from the rest of the page like a dripping glue. showing my way expressing the release of the bounds of rigid norms and having to put up with people's absurdities
