

MY YOUNGER SELF.

JULIA

(she/her)

I was inspired to create this artwork because I look up to my younger self. How happy I was and how excited I was for the future. She wanted to create a life for herself and I am learning to do that again. I want to learn how to live happy, and do it for her. I know how sad she would be if I didn't.

My younger self walking through the door seeing how I am explains how devastated she would be. She brings in light and flowers excited to see where I am now, but is not expecting what she sees. There are little details from the flowers because I was always called a hippy girl, to the butterfly representing someone who passed in my life. This painting means so much to me.
